

THE PLANE CRASH

This all begins on all hollow's eve when this group of student doctors are on their way to do training in Seattle where there are more trauma accidents happening every day so their knowledge will be as wide as possible. They were all on the plane when they heard an extremely loud bang, they thought it was just some lightening because it was forecast thunder storms. Then suddenly, an engine went out and within three minutes the plane had crashed.

Hours later Arizona was the first to wake she noticed that they were in a forest. The pain set it she noticed that there was something wrong with her leg she then removes the piece of cloth that was covering her thigh all she could see was blood she let out a monstrous scream she took a closer look as she was going into orthopedics {bones} she knew it looked familiar it was her bone.

Then, Mark woke up he was mostly fine the back of his head was bleeding but he heard Arizona scream so he tried to follow her voice to find her and see what was wrong with her when he finally found her as he was majoring in plastics, he did not know what he was looking at so he asked her when he found out it was her bone the look on his face was like he saw a ghost. Mark then said to Arizona that he should try to find April, Stiles, and Derek she agreed.

Mark found April and stiles quite close to each other but could not for the life of him find Derek how must have been in the back of the plane when it went down because he remembers them all being close to the front talking about how nervous they all were to go to a new place they had never been before to start their residency training with the best attending doctors in the country. They all thought that something was too good to be true.

Stiles then awoke he screamed when he had no idea where he was but then mark re assured him that he was safe and that they were all involved in a plane crash. Then suddenly stiles started to hyperventilate {he also suffers from extremely bad anxiety issues and attacks} at the sight of Arizona limb that is hanging off her body with thick black blood oozing out of her cold weak body.

Later, when everyone was awakened, they all gathered around April as she was stuck underneath the back of the plane with a metal rod going through her lungs as she said her final words was her confession to her lover.

When the pilot awoke, he mentioned that he had a flare gun he said that someone would see it and then come and save us so they shot the first flare. They all lay awake waiting in pain for someone to come to their rescue. Arizona let out a groan that everyone heard she then said "I feel something crawling inside of my leg" her leg went numb then she was silent for hours. She finally said something but her voice was not her own it sounded more like she had been possessed by whatever had crawled inside of her. It was like a new alter-ego had emerged within mere hours. Her appearance then started to change like a reddish-marron goo started to create a shell around her body then it all went silent.....

Arizona then started to demolish April's body. Whilst the others stared in repugnance as they wondered what had happened to their friend. When she finished, she passed out whilst the rest of them had to stay awake for days waiting for help four days later help finally arrived. The people who came to help went to Arizona first because of the slimy goo that surrounded her.

They were in the hospital stiles Derek and mark were fine they were waiting to see what had happened to Arizona. She was in an isolation room which had a bubble in so if she were contagious with whatever she had she would not infect anybody else. When the attending came back with the test results It was confirmed to be biofilms had grouped together whilst she was vulnerable with her leg open fractures were easy for the micro-organisms to climb into and bond together and without treatment, she can become a completely tameless animal and die but with treatment it could become tamable but biofilms are a ridiculously hard infection to get under control.

When she next awoke and was told the results she did not know what to do because it had already started to get into her brain and change all her impulses from human to supernatural. Part of Arizona knew that she had treatment but most of her wanted to go ferocious.

Arizona could smell blood as a new patient came in bleeding from their carotid artery, she craved it. It was like she was a vampire infected hybrid.

She escaped the hospital leaving dozens of bodies behind some doctors and some patients. They had to find her and try to appeal to her human side they knew just the way to do that but it was the factors if she even had any humanity left or was it all just gone was the Arizona, we knew simply now just a memory...

They followed the trail of bodies she lefty behind but she had hidden them well because all that was left of them were the bones, she had demolished all the flesh. They also had the police involved to help by looking at missing persons in certain places in the area.

A few weeks had passed since the search started for Arizona at the moment, they had tracked her to Redmond with about 10 bodies l the same location the police have covered it up with an animal attack which is not completely false because that is how she is acting. They continued tracking her and found her at a hotel so after they searched most of the rooms, they found her passed out after her most recent killing if you can even call it that.

Whilst she was out cold, they oved her to a prison they placed into one of the solitary confinement cells. When she awoke, she tried to break out of the restraints that they placed her in so she could not hurt anyone. Mark was the first one to go in to see if she had any humanity left in her even if it was just a tiny sliver. When he exited, he said with tears rolling down his face "I'm not afraid of ghosts or wolves or even haunted hotels for the matter but whatever is in Arizona I see no humanity left in her she has been taken over but I believe that the person we knew is still in there somewhere.” After they had all gone in individually, they all agreed that she is still in there deep down.

After hours they came to the decision to use something that was their last resort her daughter Lydia after showing her pictures and videos it was like a switch had been flipped just for a second you could tell by the look in her eye. Then the vampire hybrid part of her came back with “you are going to have to try a hell of a lot harder to get her back completely.” So that is exactly what they did non-stop for weeks on end and with her food secretly poisoning the hybrid with the treatment for the biofilm infection.

After some time, she started to seize and scream like she was being exorcised from her body. But for Arizona she was getting memories from hat the infected part of her did all the “killings” she did and how many bodies were there and she broke down with “how many families have I left broken.”

But in the end the hybrid part of Arizona still has power because no-one knows not even Arizona herself knows about the army of hybrids that are in the shadows waiting to attack sometime in the future when the universe is stuck in some phenomenon that not one person can control. But the best thing is that they will not even see it coming. So good conquers evil..... For now,
